

The rules you change should not benefit only corporations that stand to gain from increased monopolization of the media. we own the air waves and the FCC rules should benefit the people. Our democracy will not benefit if finding alternative media becomes increasingly more difficult because smaller outlets are being bought out by big companies.